

HOW TO CITE WORK USING AN ANNOTATED BIBLIOGRAPHY

The bibliography required for Project 2 has to be annotated. This means that after each entry you cite, you will include a brief descriptive/evaluative paragraph. I should be able to trace Steps 3-6 of the Seven Step Search Strategy via your bibliography.

EXAMPLE OF ANNOTATED ENTRY

Marx, Eva; Vicki Harrison and Kandra Strauss Riggs. Promoting sexual responsibility: a teen pregnancy prevention resource for school employees. Washington, D.C. : NEA Professional Library: NEA Health Information Network, 2005. Print.

We preach abstinence in our public school systems, yet the United States has the highest rate of teen pregnancy and birth in the western industrialized world – nine times as high as the Netherlands or Japan, and twice as high as England or Canada. More than 800,000 teenage girls get pregnant each year, most unintentionally. This valuable guide gives school employees the resources they need to help students avoid behaviors that can result in pregnancy, as well as HIV infection and other sexually transmitted diseases. Drawing on current research and practice, this book offers strategies that school employees can use to help students prepare to become responsible adults.
