

How the Shared Governance Process Works at the University of Houston-ClearLake

As a member of The Signal staff, it is highly likely that at some point you will have the opportunity to report on or edit a story about university policies or procedures. All proposals for additions or changes to university policies go through the shared governance process. The various bodies involved in UHCL's shared governance process and the procedure they follow for instituting university policy are available online.

Shared Governance Committees and The Faculty Senate Constitution can be found online under the Faculty/Staff tab on the UHCL Web site at www.uhcl.edu.
